Mr. Williamson stated, “I look forward to updating listeners on Jericho’s solid balance sheet positioned for growth, our current operations and the state of the challenged oil and gas industry, at large. With the continued backing of key long-term shareholders, our Company has been extremely active in looking at distressed and complementary acquisition opportunities that would provide significant growth, value creation and potential synergies for Jericho. Given investor apathy towards many oil companies, valuations remain well below what many view as sustainable and the current lack of attention and investment dollars for the space presents significant dislocations in value. We are well suited to take advantage during these turbulent times.”
